Q1 Would you say your energy costs are high, low, or about where you think they should be?

High 50%
Low 7%
About where they should be 40%
Not sure 4%

Q2 Do you currently use solar energy to power your home, or not?

Yes 14%
No 85%
Not sure 1%

Q3 (If no solar energy) What would you say is the primary reason you do not use solar energy to power your home? The cost to go solar, the time and effort to go solar, you don't have enough information to go solar, you rent your home or your roof will not work for solar, you are satisfied with your current electric bills, or something else?

Cost 20%
Time and effort 11%
Don't have enough information 9%
Rent home or roof will not work for solar 36%
Satisfied with current electric bills 10%
Something else 14%

Q4 (If no solar energy) If you could get the benefits of solar energy without needing a rooftop to install panels, would that make you more likely or less likely to invest in solar energy, or would it not make a difference?

More likely 46%
Less likely 11%
Wouldn't make a difference 35%
Not sure 8%

Q5 Do you support or oppose the state of Connecticut expanding its use of solar energy?

Support 77%
Oppose 12%
Not sure 11%

Q6 Community solar is a way to expand access to solar. Community solar (also known as shared solar or solar gardens) gives individuals access to solar energy without putting a system on their roof. This can help make solar an option for renters, families or businesses with old or shaded roofs, or customers who do not want a solar energy system on their property. Community solar allows consumers to instead participate or subscribe to a shared solar installation located somewhere else in their community along with multiple other households or businesses. Participants in a community solar array receive credits to their utility bill for their portion of the solar power produced. Knowing this, would you say you support or oppose the community solar method of expanding the use of solar energy?

Support 72%
Oppose 12%
Not sure 16%

Q7 Now I am going to read you some benefits of community solar, and after each one, ask you if that benefit makes you feel much more favorably, somewhat more favorably, somewhat less favorably, or much less favorably toward community solar, or if it has no impact on your opinion. Here's the first one: community solar expands solar access to renters, low-income families, people with shaded roofs and others so that many more Connecticut residents can benefit from solar. If hearing that community solar expands solar access to renters, low-income families, people with shaded roofs and others so that many more Connecticut residents can benefit from solar makes you feel much more favorably toward community solar, press 1. If somewhat more favorably, press 2. If somewhat less favorably, press 3. If much less favorably, press 4. If it has no impact on your opinion, press 5. If you're not sure, press 6.
